

1 Introduction

Highlights are the anchor for every note in PaperLab. A note keeps the exact page and region of the passage it came from, so a citation can always jump back to the source. This paragraph exists so the end-to-end test has real, selectable text to work with.

2 Method

The second page describes a method in enough words to form its own chunk. Coordinates are stored in PDF points with a top-left origin and converted to screen pixels only at render time.
